TIPS FOR TEACHING PARENTS

Christian parents are charged with the responsibility of training their children in spiritual things. While the teaching of the church in worship should be beneficial to young folks, even this teaching is no better than the parents who try to explain it and put it into practice before their children. In the end, almost all spiritual training is fruitless unless parents shoulder their God-given task.

Family Bible Study offers a unique teaching program, designed to teach parents to teach their own offspring in the home. The materials offered by FBS have been carefully crafted to assist godly parents in fulfilling the teaching role God has assigned to them.

In each lesson we try to offer some practical suggestion in this part of the lesson sheet, hoping that these tips will smooth out some of the rough places in the week's teaching. We know, however, that teaching kids for the first time is a hard job. Look around in your church and identify families who seem to be doing a good job of training their children. Ask them for guidance and advice with specific problems you may be encountering in conducting home Bible study.

Only as we learn to bring up our children "in the training and instruction of the Lord" are we really filling our place as Christian mothers and fathers.
